DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Butkus et al. (SU 769040).

Butkus et al. discloses engine cooling system thermostat. Referring to Fig.1, the thermostat comprises thermal expansion element 3, piston rod and valve seat 7 with upstream at bottom and downstream at upper part of the housing. Fig.1 shows that the valve seat is part of the housing. It also shows that the valve housing in the valve open condition, the cross-sectional area of the passage that is formed between the inlet seal of the valve seat on which the valve body is seated and the top face of the valve body gradually decreases on the cooling water inlet side with reference to the maximum passage cross-sectional area on the upstream side in the direction of flow of the cooling water, and such that the cross-sectional area of the passage at the face perpendicular to the top face gradually increases on the cooling water outlet side so that cooling water flows along the top face of the valve body.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
5. Claims 2, 3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Butkus et al. (SU 769040) in view of Schultz (U.S. Patent Number 2,514,803).

Butkus et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed. However, Butkus et al. does not have support elements with cooling water passages. Schultz discloses support elements having cooling water passages in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of having smooth flow. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the apparatus of Butkus et al. with support elements in view of Schultz so as to improve have an alternative support method and providing smooth flow field.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 4, 6 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Chen-Wen Jiang whose telephone number is (571) 272-4809. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Thursday from 8:00 to 6:30.
